

I Saw a Bird with Broken Wings

By Chaplain Paul 193

I saw a bird with broken wings and I began to cry, you see I did not have the heart to just sit there and watch this poor bird suffer and die.

I saw a bird with broken wings so I picked it up and took it back home, I mended its wings and fed it with compassion, kindness, and love, you see this bird was a grey ringneck dove.

In the weeks that followed I cared for the bird, I protected it and fed it very healthy things to eat, and each morning and night I prayed that this gray ringneck dove of peace and love would get back on her feet.

With each passing day the dove got a little stronger and stronger until finally one day her broken wings were completely healed, she flapped her wings with excitement and joy and I knew it was time to set her free.

I took the dove out to the desert and we said our goodbyes and I released her in faith as she flew towards the sky. The gray ringneck dove was filled with such gratitude and love, I started to cry, then I drove back home and got on my knees in thanks and praise, I thanked God for bringing this gray ringneck dove into my life, she was a true blessing and a joy to have in my life.

That night as I slept I dreamed I was a white dove flying free in the clouds, I dreamt I flew to a mountain peak and landed in some snow then I woke up and looked all around and then I noticed a faint chirping sound, so I got up and looked out back and to my surprise it was the gray ringneck dove she had found her way back and from that day on the gray ringneck dove lived with me safely in my home filled with much love... Amen John 14:27

Genesis 8:10-11 Noah waited yet another seven days and again he sent the dove out from the ark. Then the dove came to him in the evening and behold a freshly plucked olive leaf was in her mouth and Noah knew that the waters had receded from the earth.
