

THE VISIT by Chat GPT & Chaplain PDV 193

In a distant galaxy, where the stars burned bright and civilizations thrived in harmony, there lived a race of beings known as the Luminara. They were advanced in wisdom, compassion, and technology, having long ago transcended the petty conflicts that plagued lesser species. Their culture was built on principles of unity, peace, and mutual respect, and they traveled the cosmos seeking out other intelligent life to share in their knowledge and friendship.

One day, the Luminara received a signal from a small, blue planet orbiting a star they had not yet visited—Earth. The signal was a mix of images and sounds, depicting both the beauty and complexity of human life. There were scenes of families, laughter, art, and music. But mixed in were glimpses of suffering, conflict, and sorrow. The Luminara were curious and hopeful, believing that they could help this young species overcome its challenges and join the intergalactic community.

A council was convened, and it was decided that an emissary ship would be sent to Earth to make contact. The Luminara prepared gifts of knowledge, medicine, and energy sources far beyond human imagination. They set their course for Earth, eager to greet their new friends.

As their ship entered Earth's atmosphere, the Luminara were immediately struck by the planet's natural beauty. They marveled at the vast oceans, towering mountains, and lush forests. But as they descended further, their initial excitement began to wane. They saw cities choked with pollution, forests burning, and oceans filled with plastic waste. Still, they pressed on, hopeful that these were but small blemishes on an otherwise promising world.

The Luminara made contact with Earth's leaders, offering their hand in friendship. But as they observed humanity more closely, their hearts grew heavy. They watched in horror as they learned of the endless wars fought for power, resources, and land. Brother was set against brother, nation against nation, in a never-ending cycle of violence. The Luminara could not understand why humans, who had so much potential for good, would choose to destroy each other.

Their sorrow deepened as they began to see how children, and animals were exploited, abused, mistreated, and neglected. They watched with great sadness as the elderly and millions of Long Term Care Patients were being treated on Earth, like prison inmates, and zoo animals, like unwanted worthless trash, abused, neglected, and horribly mistreated. Then the Luminara discovered the practice of abortion, the systematic termination of unborn life by the millions. To the Luminara, life was sacred, and the idea of extinguishing it before it even had a chance to blossom was incomprehensible. They watched as some humans celebrated this act, calling it a right and an expression of freedom. The Luminara were appalled, their hearts aching for the innocent lives lost and the society that had normalized such brutality.

The more they observed, the more the Luminara realized that humanity was not ready for the gifts they had brought. They saw greed, selfishness, and a pervasive indifference to suffering. The Luminara had come to Earth with the hope of forging a bond of friendship, but instead, they found a species on the brink of self-destruction.

With heavy hearts, the Luminara made their decision. They would leave Earth and its inhabitants to their fate. As their ship ascended back into the skies, they sent one final message to humanity:

"We came in peace, with the hope of friendship. But we have seen the darkness that lies within your hearts. Until you learn to love and cherish each other, to value life and peace above all else, we cannot remain. When you are ready, we will return. But until then, we bid you farewell."

And with that, the Luminara departed from Earth, leaving behind no trace of their visit. They returned to their distant galaxy, where they would continue their mission of peace among the stars, but with a newfound sorrow for the lost potential of a world that could have been their friend. The humans, oblivious to the depth of their loss, continued on their path, unaware that they had been visited by beings of pure light, who had seen into their souls and found them wanting.

A short time later this message was sent to the inhabitants of Earth,

“Greetings Earthlings, Christ Yeshua has visited our planet too and we not only listened to His teachings but we follow them and live by them everyday. Here are a few of our Lord and Savior’s commandments to follow.”

The Parable of the Good Samaritan Luke 10:25-37

²⁵ An expert in the law stood up to test Yeshua.^[a] “Teacher,” he said, “what must I do to inherit eternal life?” ²⁶ He said to him, “What is written in the law? What do you read there?” ²⁷ He answered, “You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your strength and with all your mind and your neighbor as yourself.” ²⁸ And he said to him, “You have given the right answer; do this, and you will live.”

²⁹ But wanting to vindicate himself, he asked Jesus, “And who is my neighbor?”

³⁰ Yeshua replied, “A man was going down from Jerusalem to Jericho and fell into the hands of robbers, who stripped him, beat him, and took off, leaving him half dead. ³¹ Now by chance a priest was going down that road, and when he saw him he passed by on the other side. ³² So likewise a Levite, when he came to the place and saw him, passed by on the other side. ³³ But a Samaritan while traveling came upon him, and when he saw him he was moved with compassion. ³⁴ He went to him and bandaged his wounds, treating them with oil and wine. Then he put him on his own animal, brought him to an inn, and took care of him. ³⁵ The next day he took out two denarii, gave them to the innkeeper, and said, ‘Take care of him, and when I come back I will repay you whatever more you spend.’ ³⁶ Which of these three, do you think, was a neighbor to the man who fell into the hands of the robbers?” ³⁷ He said, “The one who showed him mercy.”

Yeshua said to him, “Go and do likewise.”

John 13:34-35 And this is My commandment LOVE one another just as I have LOVED You.”

John 15:9-17 ⁹ “As the Father has loved Me, so have I loved you. Now remain in My LOVE. ¹⁰ If you keep My commands, you will remain in My LOVE, just as I have kept my Father’s commands and remain in His LOVE. ¹¹ I have told you this so that My joy may be in you and that your joy may be complete. ¹² My command is this: LOVE each other as I have loved you. ¹³ Greater LOVE has no one than this: to lay down one’s life for one’s friends. ¹⁴ You are My friends if you do what I command.

¹⁵ I no longer call you servants, because a servant does not know his master's business. Instead, I have called you friends, for everything that I learned from My Father I have made known to you. ¹⁶ You did not choose Me, but I chose you and appointed you so that you might go and bear fruit—fruit that will last—and so that whatever you ask in My name the Father will give you. ¹⁷ This is My command: LOVE each other.

Matthew 22:37-39 ³⁷ Yeshua replied: “LOVE the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your strength and with all your mind.”^[a] ³⁸ This is the first and greatest commandment. ³⁹ And the second is like it:

‘LOVE your neighbor as yourself.’^[b] John 3:16 ITS ALL ABOUT LOVE, ALL WE NEED IS LOVE.

John 3:16 For God so LOVED the world He gave His only begotten Son that whoever believes in Him should not perish but have everlasting life,,Amen

